AT a time when the energies of the na-

From the information I have received, I expect he has either crossed the bridge over the Potomac at the Little falls, with an intention of going to Baltimore, or has passed the ferry at Alexandria, & made for Port Tobacco in Maryland. A person answering the a hove description has been seen on both these roads. LETTER H. From Mr. Richard Saunders, to a friend in a neighboring state : DID not mean to be harsh in my last letter, for I have a regard for you; you and many other honest men joined the democrats because you thought and believed that John Adams, with his stamp act and his gag law, as you called it, was going too far-and so you turned about and voted the federals out, and brought in the others and things appeared to work so well for a while that many other honest men thought they had been wrong in supporting the federalists, and turned about too-but the old gentleman has shown his cloven foot at last, and now honest men will turn from him. I did not much like the stamp act myself, because the British had imposed a stamp act on us once and I hated the name; but I found after a while, that I had no need to pay any thing; I made no note higher than 20 dollars, and 20 dollar notes, you remember, were not to be stamped-the rich; to be sure, who dealt largely, had to pay roundly, because a man who took obligations for thousands would not take the trouble to make 100 notes-but that was nothing to me and as to the gag law, it allowed the truth to be given in evidenceand between you and me, if a man tells damped lies of another, and of Mr. Adams, he ought to smart for it—Morgan Lewis and Ambrose Spencer don't say so tho'— At the trial of H. Croswell, judge Lewis and lawyer Spencer said the truth should not be given in evidence—they said the greater the truth the greater the libel. These are both leading men in your party nowbut I'm for telling the truth and shaming the Devil, that is to say, when it is necessarytho' I don't know where was the necessity for telling all that about black Sal, and Gabriel Jones, and such stuff-but all men have their faults, and the federalists have talked too much about Mr. Jefferson's not believing in religion, and about his black woman, and so on.

I would not look at men, but at measures -for instance. I would look at the federal direct tax, and then at the taxes of the present party. I paid 10s. 9d, to the first, and I believe in my conscience I have paid one hundred 10s. 9d. to the latter-the high price we got for produce under Adams, you know, introduced extravagance, and when once we begin to be extravagant, we can't stop. My wife and daughters must have shop goods and my boys had their cloth coats with sleeves big enough for four arms; we did not think how many per cent. was laid upon these articles by the custom house, and we did not care, but we paid more tax for muslins and shawls and such trumpery than we did to the direct tax-but with all the 11 millions of dollars the people paid for imported goods yearly, your party could not get along-you were obliged to sell the 2 millions of stock we had in the bank of the U. States. It is a great pity the democrats sold that stock—the federalists had laid it up against a rainy day, and now we should be glad of it, because, for what I see, we must go to war with the British or the French, and we shall need a little money, and this cursed embargo prevents a shilling from coming in. We shall want money to build ships, for those we had have been sold by your party, and we never can think of going to war without ships-gunboas won't do on the ocean-indeed if we are taxed to build ships, I don't know where we are to get sailors, they are all gonepoor fellows, they were obliged to go or starve, and I'll be hanged if the British will let them loose again to fight against themselves. I don't know, but I think we are in a dreadful situation, and that we never shall be better till we have a change of men.

If the federalists were in power again, you may rely on it things would soon be settled between us and the British without loss or dishonor—the fact is the British believe your party to be their enemics, and the friends of the French, and they won't give way an inch to you-but they would give way an inch or a foot to those they thought friendly to them without asking any thing in return; and that they do think the federalists friendly to them there can be no doubt, for there is not a democratic paper in the U. States that has not for 7 years told them so. Do you not call every man a tory, fought against the British in the war are called tories because they are federalists?

forced to conclude, which I guess you are not sorry for-I hope you take all ingood part, for I am your friend.

RICHARD SAUNDERS.

The following is a happy exercise of farcy, and will find its way to the hearts is well as to the understanding of the reader.

> From the Luzerne Federalist. MR. PRINTER,

AST week I took a view of the situation of our affairs with Europe-and it. must be confessed that the picture was a most forlorn one. All the powers of Europe with whom we have been in habits of intercourse, are at enmity with us a knot of disputes exists with them all, that the united wisdom of the nation would hardly be competent to unravel. Whether the sword must cut them time alone can determine.

Well, sir, quarrelling as we are with England, Spain and France, ought we not at least, to have the consolation of being contented at home? Is this the fact? Are the people of happy? Do they prosper? Is money plenty? Is business lively? Does harmony reign among us?

Come with me, sir, to yonder eninence that overlooks the union-cast your eyes eastward-do you see that weed that batsloop of war—she is stationed there in ep junction with the soldiers-for what? To attack our enemies? No such thing. All the energies of Mr. Jefferson are exhausted against our citizens. These warlike preparations are intended to prevent our merchants from selling their produce to those who would purchase. Look to the north. The man whom you see at the head of the militia, is an officer of the pacific president. He holds Mr. Jefferson's proclamation in his hand, commanding the military to prevent the citizens of Vermont from going to their usual market with their produce, and altho' there is no risk of the loss either of vessel or is suspended.

And what is the use of that huge forest of dry trees, that sureads itself before the town? You behold the masts of ships thrown out of employment by the embargo. Just was your idea of their appearance, for indeed they seem like an immense forest whose limbs and foliage have been torn from their trunks by the desolating winds of winter.

Let us proceed with our view further south. How gloomy is the prospect. Scarce a sail spreads its white bosom to the favoring winds. Hark! The sound of mirth breaks through the stillness. It is a vessel from Boston—the owner is the friend of the governor—he is of the right sect—Sullivan has given him permission to speculate upon the wants of the people, and to import flour into Boston. O that we were all democrats that we might all have monopolies, or all be contented, while we swim in the swift current to destruction.

The city you see before you is New York. The people, as they have nothing else to do, are amusing themselves with burying the bones of the British and Hessians that lay at the Wallabout. While there was any chance of making money, humanity slumbered in their bosoms.

Let us rest ourselves, while I write an epitaph, to place upon the tomb:

We've buried here, with counterfeited morns, And great parade, a heap of mould'ring bones. Full many a year beneath the open sky, Have we permitted them expos'd to lie; And whether they belong to friends or foes, No living mortal cares, as no one knows. But we've assum'd the fact that they were

But I see a sail gliding sweetly down the Delaware-mirth and glee seem to accompany her crew. Behold her tricoloured streamers how they wanton on the breez. That vessel belongs to our dear ally the French republic—she is a privateer, and is loaded with the choicest products of our country, and is permitted to depart with them " according to law."

. Hark-do you hear the tones of distress wasted on the gales from across the sea! Do you behold the columns of smoak and fire that rise to the heavens? The port of Spain, in Trinidad, is laid in ruins by fire-12,000 unfortunate beings are reduced to the utmost milery. An angel of pity has whispered to the chamber of commerce, to send them the present of a cargo of provisions with which our country abounds, to alleviate their sufferings to preserve them from starvation. O hasten the vessel-blow strong ye winds -let the tide run an unaltering course till the vessel arrives to the relief of the sufferers. Why does it not depart? Mr. Jefferson has refused the vessel liberty to departmark that do we embargo humanity? Poor sufferers, a tear of pity is all our government can bestow upon you. The French may depart loaded with provisions to prey upon our inbound cominerce—but our own citizens may not even send a present of provisions, to relieve the distressed who have been reduced to misery by the act of providence.

declaring his orders unlawful. Why does such a gloom pervade the whole interior? The farmers in the old settlements have their barns full of produce rotting on their hands. Intelligence has been received in this city from a respectable commercial house in Madeira, under date of May 26th, stating, that the Spaniards had risen, attacked, and be aten the French army in Spain; and that the British squadron off Cadiz was expected to co-operate with the Spanish fleet in conveying Charles IV. and the royal family to S. It was a report current in the British fleet off Lisbon, that the Portuguese squadron, on its voyage to Rio-Janeiro, had captured four Spanish frigates, having on board forty millions of dollars.

TUESDAY, JULY 12.

We understand that the information received by the Osage, is by no means sain factory; that there does not appear either on the part of the English or French govern ments, any disposition to relax their order and decrees relative to the trade of this con try; that, on the contrary the French go vernment appears to be giving a wide scope to the operation of the measures previously taken by them; and that no sep whatever has been taken by the Bridge vernment, since the return of Mr. Rose, even relative to the affair of the Chesapeake .-The information from Paris comes down to the middle of April; and that from London to the middle of May.

It does not appear that there is a disposition on the part either of France or England to go to war with us; but a strong desirely each to embroil us with the other.

(Nat. Intelligencer.)

A London paper of May 14, says-"At counts reached town yesterday from Open to the 3d inst. It is beyond a doubt that w have been grossly deceived with regard the state of affairs in Portugal. It does not appear that there is any thing like a family in that country, nor is it true that the Spo nish troops at Oporto have been replaced by the French; still it is certain that the Spa nish soldiers are commanded by French of cers. The commander in chief at Opona is ceneral Quesnel, who resides in the houst of Monteizo d'Almeida. The whole of by staff is composed of French officers. 0 the first of May he gave a splendid entertum ment to the most distinguished persons the place; but as the general was a bachdo the Portuguese ladies excused thems lyes being of the party, and the whole consisted of gentlemen.

"Several articles have risen to an extract dinary price at Oporto and Lisbon. Cotton at the former place is at the rate of 700 red per pound; at the latter 620. Butter is from 500 to 600 rees per pound. Some time fore the last accounts came away, a Resid vessel kad arrived at Oporto; on enter the port, she was about to be boarded by boat full of men, when the captain concering them to be pirates, fired at them, and wounded some of the crew. For this wo of aggression the vessel was embargoed and the captain made prisoner; he remained prison when the last advices came away."

It has been said in the New York Citizen and appears to be admitted in the Alban! Register, both democratic papers, that his Jefferson and Mr. Madison, sometime since received the title of French Citizen, from the French government, and reciprocated complimentary letter on that occasion. What would have been thought and said of disting guished federalists, who should have accept from the British ministry, a certificate of or no enrolled as British s

" LONDON, May 11, 1808. "The Osage arrived here on the 4th inst. from France, where she had remained for some time, and we are led to suppose from the tenor of a decree issued at Bayonne by the emperer of France, dated, we believe, the 17th of April, which is more rigorous to neutrals than any former one—that it was probably given to your minister in Paris as an ultimatum, for we now learn the emperor is proceeding to condemn all American vessels and property in any of the ports under his control. He is now engaged in revolutionizing Spain, in order to make that unfortunate country another instrument in his hand towards universal empire. Under such circumstances, we feel confident the people in America will not consider our orders in council, applied to them-from the situation in which we are placed, we must look to our own security—there is not the least inclination on the part of our government to be hostile to America, and although it may be policy not to quarrel with France, we do not see the advantage you are to derive from entirely suspending your intercourse with us ; we wish for friendship and amity, and we hope it will always be continued between our two countries. Our friends in Holland dare not write us on any subject with a signature, and we have lately been given to understand they dare not make any remittances, therefore all connexion with the continent of Europe must cease."

That in a crisis like the present, when we are surrounded by dangers, that threaten our very existence as a nation, there should be one individual found in the ranks of federalismlanguid, inactive, or indifferent, is a subject of deep surprise, and deeper mortification. There are indeed too many who, tho' orthodox in their principies and steadfast in the true faith of federalism, are yet desirous of being thought moderate in their sentiments and conduct: who, feeling for the extreme misery brought upon their country by a weak, ioolish and dishonest administration of its government, are yet unwilling to exert themselves or sanction the exertions of others in opening the eyes of the people to the delusions of impostors, and redeeming the nation from the ruin and disgrace in which it is now involved. We have often heard men of this description rail at the bitterness of political discussion, and seen them frown upon the most unexceptionable investigation of public men or public measures. Affecting to believe that "men may deceive without fraud, and overturn every thing without violence," they attribute every thing to political ignorance, and nothing to political turpitude. They will not even join inthe most dispationate and sober survey of the schemes by which the people of this country have been deluded and imposed upon. They indulge themselves in a sort of undefined hope, that the multitude will at length pause and reflect upon their betrayed and misplaced confidence, and that even demagogues will forsake their impostures, and no longer deceive and delude.

Such expectations can never be the result of reflection; they betray rather a littleness of soul, an anxiety to sacrifice nothing, even for the best interests of the country, a fear of incurring the displeasure of men in power, unworthy of rational, free and independent minds. The people must be undeceived; and this can only be done by a firm, dignified and open investigation of the conduct of their rulers. As to the hope that demagogues may undergo a change, it is fallacious and unreasonable., " Cheats and deceivers never can repent. The fraudulent have no resource but in fraud. They have no other goods in their magazine.-They have no wisdom or virtue in their minds, to which in disappointment concerning the profitable effects of fraud and cunning, they can retreat. The wearing out of an old, serves only to put them upon the invention of a new delusion.

NEUTRAL TRADE. -- We are indebted to a friend for a copy of the subsequent proclamation, which was received by the British Packet __ [N. York pap.

WHEREAS in the present situation of affairs, it appears to me necessary to authorise the admission of neutral vessels and commodities into this province, under certain regulations. I have therefore, by and with the advice of his majesty's council, thought fit to grant permission to the subjects of all neutral nations to import and brig into the ports of Halifax, Shelburne, Liverpool and Digby, in this province, in neutral ships or yes-sels, all articles of merchandise allowed to be imported and brought by British subjects naval stores of all kinds, pot and pearl ashes. And I do hereby order and direct, that all neutrals and neutral shipping; importing and bringing all such goods, wares and merchandize before mentioned into the harbors of this province, shall be allowed to land and sell the same freely and without interruption, subject to the same rules and regulations, and liable to the same duties, which British subjects importing the same articles in British ships are now liable. and subject to. And to lade and carry from thence any goods or commodities which may be legally exported by British subjects in British shipping. This proclamation to be in force for four months from the date here-

Perouse retires to explore a cave, leaving the chest openduring his absence a bear of the island enters, altering the position of Perouse's arrangements, and closing the lid of the chest, retires in search of his prey. Perouse returns, discovers the devastation, is alarmed, supposing it to be done by human beings, arms himself and retires cautiously. Chimpanzee (an animal of the monkey kind) comes from the rocks, jumps into the chest, and regules on the stores; the Bear returns, springs towards him and catches him in his arms. Perouse returns and shoots the Bear, encourages Chimpanzee to come to him, ties his handkerchief round his neck, and leads him by the right of a torch, into the cave.

Scene 2. A Natural Grotto, where the water has made its way through in various directions, and is frozen: the icicles hanging from the top cement the several ores and variegated shells, and form the petrified archcs. Perouse enters with Chimpanzee, ties him to a part of the grotto, and retires for the purpose of bringing the remains of the wreck Chimpanzee releases himself, and running to the trunk, accidentally fires one of the pistois. Perouse returns alarmed, discovers the mischief, corrects the animal, and makes him understand that he is in want of water to drink, for which they leave the Grotto.

Scene 5. The Beach as before. A Canoe seen at a distance; it approaches the shore; the Indians land; are astonished at the appearance of the wreck. The roaring of wild beauts is heard—they prepare their bows and arrows, and commence the hunt.

Scene 6. A Landscape. A number of wild berries are seen. Perouse pulls a bunch, and is about to eat them; the monkey informs him they are poison; Perouse gratefully careases him, and they depart in search of a Umba, an Indian female, struck with the appearance of Perouse, determines to save his life by her interference. Perouse advances with caution; the savages spring upon him, when Umba rushes from her retreat, interposes her body between the arrows of the Indians and Perouse ; at her entreaty they place their bows and ar-TIMOTHY BRUNDIDGE, Assigned rows on the ground. Perouse, rejoiced to find them pacifically inclined, follows their example, and makes friendly advances, which are received with admiration by Umba; he then presents her with his watch, ring and hat: the savages are pleased and surprised Kanko, their chief, struck with the appearance of the gun is excited by curiosity to eximine it. Perouse, slammed, snatches it from him; the Indians assume their attitude of defence, but by the intercession of Umba, beare is again restored. The Indians place Perouse's hat upon a spear, and joyfully dance round it. Umba offers to shew Perouse the situation of the island, which he accepts, and they retire. Kanko (the lover of Umba; immediately becomes jealous, and determines to destroy Perouse by poisoned berries-he consults Umba's father and brother on the meant to which they agree-Perouse and Umba return : Kanko accuses Perouse of treachery ; alarmed at his situation, he requests Umba to return to her lover. Kanko presents the poisoned berries to Perouse and entreats him to eat. Perouse shews them to Umba and informs her how he came by them. She furiously reproves Kanko for his treachery, and falls on the neck of Perouse. Kanko retires chagrined at being foiled in his attempts on Perouse's life. Umba becomes enamored of Perouse; he informs her that he is already married, and shews her the picture of his wife. The Indians prepare to depart. Kanko seizes Umba to force her to the canoe; she clings to Perouse, who, to convince the Indians that he wishes for their departure, joins their bands. Umba disdainfully throws Kanko from her, and runs away; the Indians take the alarm and pursue her. Perouse seizes his gun to save Umba from the fury of their revenge; fires amongst them, and runs to her assistance. The monkey, hearing the report of a gun, comes from the cave with a lighted torch; seeing the danger drops it, and climbs up a rock. Umba enters, snatches up the lighted torch, and runs into the cavo to escape the fury of her pursuers -Kanko enters in pursuit of her, prepares his spear to stab Perouse, who now enters, encountering the whole party of Indians; they press upon him, and overcome him. Kanko wounds him in the side with a poisoned spear. The savages retire to their canoe. Chimpanzee descends from the rock, discovers the wound in Perouse's side, and sucks the poison from the wound. Perouse recovers. Umba now comes from the cave. Perouse avoids her; she requests to become his slave, which he refuses; in despair she plucks the poisoned berries, determined to destroy herself, which Perouse prevents—he shews her the wound in his side. ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE

F the great efficacy of the Patent and Fa mily Medicines, prepared by the late Rich ard Lee, jun, which for near eight years pas have acquired throughout the United States a elebrity hitherto unequalled.

Being desirous to make public for the good of others, the excellent quality of HAMIL-TON'S ELIXIR, prepared by the late Mr Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from it, which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had suddenly to rise up in my bed with all the horrors of immediate suffication. Add to these a constant pain in my breast and a cough, a great less of strength and ficsh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption. The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, without giving me any relief. Another physician who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to gree Hamilton's Elixir a trial, saying he had used it in his practice, and always found it do much good. A bottle was procured from Mr. Birch's, and I found relief before I had takien one half of it. I continued to use it and was soon strong enough to attend to bu-siness. On taking cold, same of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose of two of the clixir.

GEO. BENNER, jun. No. 1 , Budd-street, Rhiladelphia From Luther Martin, Esq. like Atterney Se-

neral of the State of Maryland. I comply with your request in stating my opinion of Hamilton's Elixir. It has been used in my family for two or three years past, with uniform success, whenever colds, coughs, or similar complaints, have rendered medicine necessary. I have myself found it an excellent and agreeable remedy for a very painful and troublesome affection of the breast, accompanied with soreness, and with obstructed and difficult breathing.

commend Hamilton's Elixir as a valuable medicine, and deserving public attention.

LUTHER MARTIN. HAMILTON'S ELIXIR

Is recommended as the best remedy for coughs, colds, asthmas, hooping cough, approaching consumptions, and most disorders of the breast and lungs. This preparation will prove a valuable acquisition to public speakers who may be subject to temporary hoarseness. thickness of speeck, &c. In long confirmed Asthmatic complaints where a cure can speedily be expected, this medicine affords immediute relief, moderating the fits of coughing, and rendering their recurrence less frequent. On children afflicted with the hooping cough, the like beneficial effects may confidently be expected.

ITCH CURED.

By once using Lee's Sovereign Ointment, which, although used for 20 years in Europe and for near 8 years in America, has never been known to fail in any one instance. It is perfectly innocent, warranted not to contain a particle or mercury of any pernicious ingredi ent, and may be used with perfect safety on an infant, being a vegetable preparation and entirely free from he effensive smell which attends most other remedies.

HAMILTON'S LOZENGES,

Which have cured more children and adults of disorders proceeding from woams, than all the medicines heretofore discovered. In addition to the great cures mentioned in the letters from the chancellor of the state of Mary land, the Rev. Mr. Molthier and others, lately published the following are submitted to the public; being selected for the purpose of shewing the mild yet powerul qualities of tais extraordinary medicine, which, although so mild in its operation, is competent to expel the formidable tape worm.

An infant, aged 5 weeks, of Mr. Henry Ewbank, taylor, Charles-street, Baltimore, was dangerously afflicted with convulsion fits, so that his life was despaired of, but was perfectly cured by one dose of Hamilton's Worm Lo zenges, which expelled several worms, the undoubted cause of the child's disorder. Letter from Mr. Ackerman, bricklayer, Maga zine street, near Broadway, Jan. 24, 1802. It would be ungrateful were I to withhold my testimony in favorof Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges. I had been between five and six years past much indisposed, and latterly often tormented with severe griping and pains in the bowels, troubled with offirsive breath, with violent feverish fits and otler obvious symptoms of worms; but frequently hearing your Worm Lozenges recommended in cases similar to mine, I determined on a trial of them, as my last resource. The first dose evacuated twelve or 13 feet of a toe worm; two other doses were taken, which brought away a quantity of matter broken li. skins and pieces of worms. I suppose tle tape worm, voided at different times, must in the whole have exceeded forty feet. The it. most incredible benefit I received from this medicine, induced me to give a dose to a child of mine who was pining and sickly: it prodiced the same good effect in this instance expelling a worm of a different kind, from, nile to twelve inches long, and at the same time restoring a good state of health.

NOTHING is of more importance han the preservation of health—this common lacep remark however is TOO OFTEN FORGOTTEN, whilst we are active and strong-and prevention of pain, which is superior to its cure, is not sufficiently attended to by any description of persons. Among those disorders which require the most early and unremitting efforts to eradicate and overcome, none have a strong, er claim upon our notice than the Gout, Rheumutism, Lumbago, Weakness of the Joints, Sprains, Gleets, the Stone and Gravel, the Cramp and every species of Rheumatic Pains from whatever cause they may have originated-and hence every relief which can he administered is too valuable to be forgotten.-Those persons whose avocations peculiarly expose them to colds, &c. cannot be too anxious Iways to possess immediate aid. Sea-faring persons, travellers, &c. ought constantly to carry with them that medicine which will counteract the unpleasans effects of their perilous duties, and especially those pains to which their situation must expose them. It would be an act of injustice to withhold my testimony of the salutary effects of Doctor Tissot's Gout and Rheumatic Drops, as I have experienced a very unequivocal instance of their virtues and efficacy. I was afflicted with two severe attacks of what is usually called hidigo, allum, copperas, madder, primston's Dead Palsy, from which I partially recovered, spinning cotton, patent shot all siz s, best enbut was obliged to use crutches to aid me in walking when I left home; to this were joined violent Rheumatic pains, the result of the affliction, and I had feared the disorder would accompany me through life; but providentialy was recommended to apply at George Dobbin and Murphy's for Dr. Tissot's Drops, and after using only one bottle, found myself perfectly liberated from my disorder, and am now, thank God, as free from pain as if I never had been afflicted. Finding this medicine operate so powerfully on myself, I determined to apply it internally to my child, a boy only eleven months old, who was then reduced almost to a skeleton with the Bowel Complaint; after administering it four times to him, his complaint was entirely removed, and he is now re covering his strength with great rapidity.
